

This is a great opportunity for beginners to Grand Prix prospects to receive personal instruction from an elite-level instructor, with a Classical Dressage basis of theory for a single lesson, or a series of lessons over a few days to work through any problems or further explore your next steps of advancement at any level.

Dieter also offers educational seminar style courses with topics like:

- Dressage for Jumping
- Lunging
- Improve the basic gaits
- Riding through the rein
- Transitions
- Arena Craft
- Collection and Extension
- Lateral Work (2nd and 3rd level)
- Lateral Work (4th and advanced)
- Common mistakes and how to avoid them

Jody Hartstone and Landioso
Olympian and pupil of Dieter

Dieter Riedinger
Dressage

"Anything forced and misunderstood can never be beautiful"

Xenophon, 380 B.C.

Objectives of Training:

Actively participate in the development of horse and rider through effective and focused training -

- Establish sound basics.
- Development of an effective seat and aids.
- Communicate effectively with “difficult horses”.
- Learn the athletic intent of dressage movements as well as their proper execution to help increase your horse’s flexibility and strength.
- Learn to educate the horse with a reward based system.
- Develop increased athletic ability of horse and rider equates increasing confidence, resulting in a winning partnership.
- Train students to Grand Prix.

Recommendations:

Eric Lette (Chairman FEI) at Trainer Assessment Scheme-
Stephan Clarke (International Trainer & Judge) Ass. Scheme HAM

Philosophy on Training:

Systematic classical training is the quickest way to achieve quality results. Riedinger’s approach to training is about the development of learning and understanding core principles for both the horse and rider. There are no “quick fixes”, but there are many simple and practical solutions for different problems using effective communication.

Dieter Riedinger believes in a teaching style that is approachable. Clear explanations go a long way towards harmony and success. His coaching philosophy is unique in the way that the welfare of the horse comes first, which produces horses that are willing to work in harmony with the rider.

Well known for his calm disposition, he consistently produces horses that work with the rider rather than for the rider. This is the foundation of Classical Dressage. Also, it is very important that a trainer masters the ability to adjust to each individual horse and student effectively, implementing tactics and a training program that builds the horse by creating, implementing and supplementing various approaches. His broad base of knowledge and experience produces excellence in both communication and compatibility, which in turn leads to success at all, levels.

About Dieter Riedinger:

- Foundation training at the Vienna Riding School, Austria
- Advanced training at the Establishment Kronberg with International Trainer Georg Wahl and Joachim Grossauer at Grand Prix
- Won Austrian Junior Rider of the Year at Grand Prix
- 4 years training at Gschwendt Hof (Alois Podhajsky) with Milos Velde
- Core principles of classical dressage and riding/training horses at Advanced level and schooling to Haute Ecole
- Riding displays at International Competitions at the Vienna Hall in conjunction with CSI of Austria
- 20 years experience coaching in New Zealand and Internationally -
- Lead judging clinics – with Joan Matheson, Grand Prix judge for NZEF
- Development of own horses, including performance stallion Limvadi
- History of producing Burkner Medal & Volvo CDI Competitors_

For a booking please contact:
(919) 554-0138

Email. riedinger@gmail.com